

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF THE STATE OF OREGON, FOR THE COUNTY OF MALHEUR.

SUMMONS.

Harriet E. Smith,
Plaintiff.

Allen Gilkey, Angie Gilkey, N. J.
Minton, Effie L. Minton, G. W.
Fletcher and Jane Doe Fletcher, Defendants.

To Allen Gilkey, Angie Gilkey, N. J.
Minton, Effie L. Minton, G. W.
Fletcher and Jane Doe Fletcher,
the above named defendants:

IN THE NAME OF THE STATE OF OREGON, You and each of you are hereby required to appear and answer the complaint filed against you in the above entitled suit on or before the 21st day of January, 1916, the same being the last day of the time prescribed by order of the court directing service of summons in said suit to be made upon you by publication; and if you fail so to answer, for want thereof, the plaintiff will apply to the said court for the relief demanded in said complaint, to-wit: For judgment against the defendants, and each thereof for the sum of $2,000.00 with ten per cent annual interest thereon from May 17th, 1910 and for $300.00 attorney's fees, and for plaintiff's costs and disbursements in said suit; also for a decree of the court foreclosing that certain real mortgage executed by Allen Gilkey and Angie Gilkey to Henry A. Smith and Harriet E. Smith on May 17th, 1909, for the sum of $2,000.00 upon certain lands in Malheur County Oregon, described in said mortgage and in said complaint, which said mortgage is of record in book J, page 190, of the Records of Real Mortgages for Malheur County, Oregon, and for all other relief demanded in said complaint.

You are further notified that this summons is served upon you by publication under and by virtue of an order of the Hon. Dalton Biggs, Judge of this court, which said order was made and entered in said cause on the 9th day of December, 1915, and directed that this summons be published once each week for six consecutive weeks in the Ontario Semi-weekly Argus, commencing with the issue of December 10th, 1915. The first publication of this summons is on December 10th, 1915 and the last publication is on January 20th, 1916.

NEAL OF THE NAVY

Back in the jungle, on the outskirts of the Aztec village of Corazon del Sol, a few days before, three men—accompanied by a native guide or two—had crept through the jungle toward civilization and the shore. On the second day they had reached a railway station, such as it was, and a railroad, such as it was. They found the stationmaster.

"When does the next train go?"
demanded Hernandez.

The official yawned. "When she returns from Tortuga, the pestilential—possibly tomorrow afternoon."

Hernandez stamped his foot impatiently.

Hours later from a clump of trees on the outskirts of Tortuga Hernandez, Ponto and Brute peered across the bay.

Suddenly Hernandez clutched Ponto by the arm. "Look," he cried, "they come."

Through the opening in the leaves he pointed toward the wharf. Annette and her little coterie were landing on the wharf.

"Ponto," said Hernandez, "that little wildcat of a girl—she and her smooth-faced sweetheart—they have tricked us long enough. This time they shall not get away."

CHAPTER XLI.

Pestilence.

As Annette's party passed along, single file, up the narrow overgrown shore road, slapping and swatting mosquitoes to their heart's content, they heard a quick step behind them.
They turned. An officer closing up their rear, saluted.

He was the ship's surgeon. He strode on with brisk pace. "Let me get ahead there if you please," he said, "there's something that I don't like about this place—I want to have a look."

Scarcely had he said it before a native woman darted out of a tumbledown hut—one of many that fronted on the shore road.

"Madre di Dios," she cried in shrill accents. "Americanos—help—succor.
For the love of heaven."

She knelt by the roadside and as the surgeon swung along, she clasped him by the knees.

"My child—my man child—my only one," she wailed, in the Spanish tongue, "he is at death's door. Help, Senor, senora, senorita—help."

The surgeon lifted the woman to her feet. He spoke soothingly in Spanish to her, and turned and told the others what she said.

"Go on, everybody," he cried, pointing up the road, "let nobody follow me. Go your way."

Annette and her little party proceeded forthwith to the hotel—a flimsy affair, rejoicing in the cognomen of the Inn of the Spanish Don.

But after but the surgeon entered, glancing quizzically into the face of some sufferer—nodding solemnly with pursed-up lips—left tablets and directions, and then went on his way.

Finally he found his way to the center of the town and made an inquiry.
He was directed to a somewhat formal looking building.

The surgeon strode on into the house. He found the mayor in his pajamas, smoking a cigar.

The surgeon seated himself and accepted a palm-leaf fan. "Sorry," he said, "but your place reeks with yellow fever—you've got an epidemic on your hands."

Mayor Ramon Carrol started up.
"Madre di Dios," he cried, "what—not another one. They will impeach me—it is ruin. Say not so."

The surgeon nodded. "Don't get excited, Senor Carrol," he returned, "fortunately the Albany is in the roadstead. I'll fetch over a hospital force.
We'll do what we can. Have you got a piece of paper—I want half a dozen sheets. That's what I came here for."

He got them and went on his way.
His way lay past the Inn of the Spanish Don. He stopped.

"Here, Gunner Hardin," he cried,
"come out in the road and spray me with this." Neal sprayed him. The surgeon sat down in the hotel office and harangued Annette's party. He harranged them from a distance. "You people," he said, "are in no danger—not even Mrs. Hardin—if you follow my instructions."

"The important thing," went on the surgeon, "is the mosquitoes. It isn't likely the bites you've got have done you any harm. I'll leave you tablets anyhow, to ward the fever off. But I'll do more—I'll have mosquito netting fetched over from the ship and you can sleep under it at night. Now I want help—"

He distributed the sheets of official paper he had obtained from Mayor Ramon Carrol.

"Sit down—all of you—anywhere," he commanded, "and write out what I say. It'll be in Spanish—and it's got to be plain. I'll spell the words so you won't go wrong. Begin."

And then he dictated the warning that was posted that afternoon in all the public places of the town.
